Our city deserves better than to have developers come in and demolish historical buildings that are in sound condition. Projects that do not honor the "soul" of our city should not receive variances from the council. The variance takes away the opportunity for that neighborhood to have a service business there when the area is again thriving, moving us away from the more pedestrian friendly community that many desire for the city core. The demolition also has an environmental effect by unnecessarily adding to the landfill materials that were still serving their purpose. We need our elected officials to start thinking more holistically.
